

Covenco365 and Covenco UK Launch End-to-End IT Service Offering under New Brand, Covenco

Sister companies Covenco365 and Covenco UK announce their formal merger and the launch of a new brand, Covenco, with a combined, end-to-end IT proposition.

Covenco has over 32 years of experience with leading Infrastructure and Data Management technologies, specialising in IBM hardware and data backup and recovery solutions.

The business operates globally, with offices in the UK, Spain, Denmark and the USA.

Combining the Infrastructure and Data Management sides of the business will help customers leverage Covenco's expertise in hardware supply, systems configuration and support.

Each company will continue to serve its current clients as Covenco; however, the larger company now offers a broader range of end-to-end services, including new and second-user hardware supply, managed services, and data backup, data protection and security.

Mark Creasey, Covenco Group Chairman, comments, "We believe this combined offering will allow our clients and staff to enjoy the benefits of an integrated, seamless and full-service solution. Merging under a single Covenco entity unlocks this unique opportunity to support our clients and our team further.

"We remain committed to our long-standing software partners and providing clients with a seamless total business solution."

As technology evolves, Covenco will continue to partner with leading solution vendors while developing its technical expertise to support customers' needs and growth.

Additionally, Covenco is pleased to announce that as a prerequisite to this formal merger, it obtained ISO27001 certification in December 2022, providing assurance and compliance to customers across the entire enterprise.

Internally, the company's vision is to further invest in people and capacity to support value-creation projects and offer up-skilling. The merger brings complementary capabilities within both pools of talent. Significant growth ambitions under Covenco will require more resources and provide opportunities for existing staff to expand their knowledge and skills.

"We maintain the businesses' technical competence in all aspects of our service delivery, and we are thrilled to offer our valued customers simplified dealings under the single brand," Mark concludes.
